

The image displays a large grid of empty rectangular boxes, organized into four vertical columns and twenty horizontal rows. Each box is intended for a card in a game. The grid is divided into four equal-width columns, with each column containing twenty boxes stacked vertically. The boxes are completely blank, providing a template for a card-based activity.